Why was I double charged for YouTube Premium? {Customer Help Support}

If you were double charged for YouTube Premium, +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} the most common explanation is that you have two overlapping YouTube memberships, such as separate YouTube Premium subscriptions on +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} different Google Accounts or a standalone subscription alongside a Premium benefit included with another Google service. YouTube also notes that what looks +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} like a second charge can sometimes be a pending transaction or authorization hold, which is not an actual completed charge. To investigate,+1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} go to youtube.com/paid_memberships and review your memberships, then check Google Pay → Activity to compare the dates, amounts, +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} and payment methods.

Related FAQs

1. How can I check whether I have two YouTube Premium subscriptions?
Go to youtube.com/paid_memberships and +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} review the memberships listed under your account. If you use more than one Google Account, switch between your accounts and check each one for an active +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} YouTube Premium membership. YouTube explains that duplicate subscriptions can happen when someone subscribes using another +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} email address, device, or billing platform.

2. Could one of the two YouTube Premium charges be an authorization hold?
Yes. An authorization hold can look like a second +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} charge, particularly shortly after starting or renewing a membership. YouTube uses these temporary authorizations to verify that your payment method is +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} valid and has sufficient funds. They are not completed +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} charges, and YouTube says they can remain visible +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} for 1–14 business days, depending on your bank.

3. Can Google One cause duplicate YouTube Premium charges?
Yes, in some situations. YouTube explains that if you +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} have a standalone YouTube Premium subscription and also receive YouTube Premium through a Google One plan or add-on, the standalone +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} membership may remain active rather than being automatically canceled. +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} This can result in paying for overlapping benefits. +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} Review your subscriptions and cancel the standalone +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} membership if you no longer need it.

4. How do I stop being charged twice for YouTube Premium?
First, identify which memberships are generating the +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} charges by checking youtube.com/paid_memberships and your Google Pay transaction history. If you find duplicate standalone memberships, select Manage membership for the subscription you don't need and choose the option to +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} deactivate or cancel it. If one subscription was purchased through a+1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} third-party provider, you may need to contact that provider to cancel it.

5. Can I request a refund for a duplicate YouTube Premium charge?

If you were genuinely charged twice, you can review the +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} transaction and request a refund through YouTube's refund process. YouTube says refund eligibility depends on the circumstances, and +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} purchases made through Apple are subject to Apple's refund policies. Before +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} requesting a refund, check your membership +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} and Google Pay history to confirm that both transactions were completed +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} charges rather than one being +1 (866) 381-7244 {US/UK} a temporary authorization hold.

programming based on your current location.